Antonio rivers are row. It was almost the bonly channel of communication between Houston and Galveston up to the time of the construction of the first railroad, and the boats which plied regularly between the two dites had no difficulty on account of lack of water in the bayou. They were light draft, it is true, because of the aboat water on Clopper's har and Hed Plah her in Galveston hay. If those hare had been cut out to twenty feet locals drawing twenty feet could have come up to Housson, without difficulty succept for the marrowness and chancelly of the stream above. Harrisburg.

"How do you account for the aboating and other changes in the bayout."

"The principal shoules, has been between Houston and Herrisburg, and the principal shoules, has been between Houston and Herrisburg, and the principal shoules, has been between the strength of saw in the at the havou and the brane into a garden plat-gard the competition will under of both Gal-veston and Houston cities indeed. Houston the greater, because as arer the consumer, and sefer, being less exposed. Indeed, the pictures of rasults which learn up to the minds eye equal a poet's desan and re-quire a more eloquout tougus than indic-to depict."

reporter found N. S. Schmitz, who, being eaked as to the prospects for gotting fuctories to come to Houston, said : "Manufacturers are generally close observers and therefore will be among the namely, that Texas and especially Houseon offers more inducements to day for many branches of manufacture than any other section of our country. Houseon is very happily located, on the cast having the most magnificent body of timber land remaining uncut in the United States, on the north and west the rich fields of cotton and sugar and corp and the vast grazing grounds for cattle and sheep and the guif on our south; thus being arrounded with acceptance in cattle and sheep and the gulf on our south-thus being aurrounded with everything that the fields, the pastures, the forest, the mines and the seas supply to man. And to carry all these good thuss to our markets and factories and to distribute our finished product, we have navigable water at ca-thour and fouriesen railroads reaching out in every direction. And not the least factor to our development and not the least factor in our development and in securing addi-tional factories you will see is the spirit of the people of Texas, who are more and more inclined to patronize home industries. And our banks here furnish money to good touccome at about as low a rate if not guite as do the banks up North and Bast, and when we manufacture more interquite as do the banks up North and Bast, and when we manufacture more of the products we consume and keep the money at home, when that time comes, the banks can afford to let us have money at a very low rate-because then, when it is drawn out by the manufacturer it goes to the merchant and back to the same Houston banks, instead of being sent to the North and East, as it now is only too often. Yes, some doubt the efficiency of our labor, but to these days of machinery and of division of labor it takes a workman but a very short time to become expert in his particular brauch of work. Then look at the cost of living here and in the North or East. Why, a man here who has a small garden can flud half his living the year round, and our workmen will live more comfortably than their Northern brothers on one-half the outlay of money, which enables them to lay by comething for a rainy day. The saving in fuel, 'n clothing, in house rent, in doctor bills and many other important trems alone will make a careful man independent in a shert time, as compared with labor in Northern latitudes. You can depend on it, factories are coming. Why, there are several parties flocking around even now, and a whole airing of manufacturers will be represented in Houston before her citizens will be aware of it."

Dr. A. L. Wray, in response to the question, "What is your opinion of the outlook for this city and section," responded:

ook for this city and sertion," responded: "As regards the future of Houston and the coast country. I can unbestratingly state that I have no reason to change the opinion formed in the summer of "No upon my first visit to this section, and after a residence of fifteen months in Houston 1 am more than ever convinced that within mass of information worth not only a more than ever convinced that within the part feading, but preservation for future ifference:

"I should think you would know some iblus of the bayou, then," said the revorter."

"Well, I believe I do, seeing I have been long it or over its surface many times, rou Piney Point to its junction with the man, with the improved marchinery at hand, and the thing is done, and Houston on account of her location tikes hor propose in placed as those of the Colorado and San Antonio rivers are row. Editor Culmore of the Evening Press talked as follows: "Yes, sir, the commercial importance of the bayou and ship channel, not only to Houston, but to Texas and all of the States of these United States will be part of the report of the engineers who are charged to make an estimate of a 500 feet wide and twenty-five feet deep channel to the Galveston jettles from Houston and every patriotic citizen of the Lone Star State should render the com-coittee all aid in their power to atrive at the truth. There can be no more deabt about the feasibility of exportation and imabout the feasibility of experiation and im-periation by a good gulf port for Texas of all the country west of the Mississippl and Missouri rivers.
